INFORMATION FOR PARTNER UNIVERSITIES

Language requirements for undergraduate and master's students.

In the light of regional legislation, university regulations and recommendations from the European Commission, undergraduate and master Erasmus+: Erasmus students coming to the University of Granada are required to demonstrate a minimum level (B1) of proficiency in the language of instruction (primarily Spanish, plus a modest academic offer in English).

In order to accredit the required level (B1), applicants must provide a certificate of competence, according to CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages).

If an official language proficiency certificate cannot be provided at the beginning of selection process, applicants may submit other certificates that indicate a sufficient level of language competence in order to be pre-selected. Later on, undergraduate and master students pre-selected MUST provide an official language proficiency certificate before they can initiate their stay at the Universidad de Granada.

eLADE is the UGR official bi-level (B1-B2) Spanish online exam, organised by the Centro de Lenguas Modernas (CLM). The exam fulfils all the international criteria for language accreditation, and has been recognized at national and European level. It is organized twice a year (June and December), and its online format facilitates that it can be taken at the home university prior to the mobility, providing applicants with further opportunities to fulfil the language requirement.

Partner institutions may host the exam occasionally (for a particular call) or become an eLADE Exam Certified Test Examination Site:
http://elade.es/es/elade-solicitud-sede.html

If a partner institution has designed or administers a language proficiency exam which is not included in the list of certificates accepted by UGR, it can be submitted in order to be examined by the university-wide committee for language accreditation. Certificates meeting the international standards applied in the table mentioned above will be accepted. The language proficiency should be expressed in terms of the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages regarding speaking, writing, listening and reading. Notwithstanding, the Universidad de Granada reserves the right to accept or refuse any non-official language proficiency certificate which does not guarantee those standards on an individual basis during the nomination phase.

In addition to this, the UGR also recognizes a number of situations where students are exempt from submitting certificates of competence:
1. Students who have already obtained a Bachelor's Degree in the language of instruction (English or Spanish), which might be especially the case of some master's students.
2. Students who have already obtained a degree in a Spanish-speaking or an English-speaking country or university, when these are the languages of instruction.

3. Students who have obtained the Diploma granting access to University studies according to the Spanish system, or according to any system whose language of instruction is English.

Furthermore, the UGR grants admission without the language accreditation requirement to the following Bachelor's programmes in languages to undergraduate students who are enrolled in equivalent degrees at their home university:

- Bachelor's Degree in English Studies.
- Bachelor's Degree in French Studies.
- Bachelor's Degree in Modern Languages and Literatures: Chinese, Italian, Russian and Hebrew (only students who have already completed two academic years at the home university).
- Bachelor's Degree in Arabic and Islamic Studies (only students who have already completed two academic years at the home university).

On top of all this, the UGR offers free online resources for the enhancement of students' linguistic competences, with a view to facilitate the preparation of the accreditation exam as well as the mobility:
